

October 2014

Distribution partnership

Vaqtec is delighted to announce a distribution partnership with British based, oils and greases manufacturer DURAVAC PRODUCTS LTD. Vaqtec will be selling their silicon oils for diffusion pumps and greases for vacuum processes alongside the Vaqtec range of vacuum products.

From its humble beginnings almost 30 years ago, until the present day, Duravac insisted that both quality and affordability must go hand in hand for every product that it sent to market. This company ethos is maintained right up to the present day. Duravac insists that its products must be able to produce the levels of vacuum performance to all known industry gold standards, and never to only good enough. That is why Duravac can be called the engineers choice.

Their range includes a comprehensive selection of Silicon oils, mineral oils and greases.

As well as selling and servicing the DURAVAC OILS and GREASES, Vaqtec's skilled team will be available to assist with requests and meet all today's stringent high technology quality requirements.

Roberto Cometti, Managing Director of Vaqtec commented: "This is another important step forward for Vaqtec to distribute a premier quality products range that compliments our High Vacuum and Ultra High Vacuum products range. We are delighted to be working with DURAVAC PRODUCTS and to be able to benefit from their technical credibility and production experience"